STAND PAT LEADERS LECTURES AND CLINICS GIVEN BRITISH TROOPS TO QUELL RIOTS

In the Senate and the House to Fight to the Very Last.

TO PREVENT PASSAGE

Of Bills by Congress Over the Vetoes of President Taft.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Stand pat Republican leaders of the Senate and House flocked to the White House today to inform President Taft that they would fight to the last ditch before they would allow either the Senate or the House to pass any measure over the President's veto.

Apparently convinced that there is no prospect of an adjournment of Congress in the near future, President Taft made plans to leave here late today for a second week-end trip to Beverly, Mass., where he had hoped to spend most of the summer.

When the President returned from Mountain Lake Park, it was thought Congress would adjourn by August 15, but the tariff situation became so complicated that he decided on a vacation.

The sub-committee in charge of the wool tariff revision bill failed to reach an agreement today. All the conferees will meet tomorrow to again consider the entire tariff situation.

The House bill for a revision of the cotton schedule of the present tariff law was reported adversely to the Senate today from its finance committee.

The House agreed on minor Senate amendments to the Arizona and New Mexico statehood bill and the measure now goes to the President who it is stated will veto it.

He was born July 22, 1908, and should have begun talking some time ago, but he has failed to develop speech, and now the doctors say that he is deaf. He is under the care of several experts, and the hope is held out that an operation will relieve him and cure his ailment. Princess Beatrice is a year and a day younger than Prince Jaime. Queen Victoria is a daughter of the youngest daughter of Queen Victoria of England.

The county court took a recess Wednesday evening until Friday.

At Thursday's Sessions of the State Dental Society's Annual Convention.

CHANGE OF STATE LAW Is Proposed So That Society May Nominate for Board Appointments.

Lectures by Dr. H. H. Haynes, of Clarksburg, and Dr. I. W. Hutchinson, of Parkersburg, featured Thursday afternoon's sessions of the West Virginia State Dental Society's fifth annual convention at the Waldo hotel. The former spoke on the manifestations of disease in the mouth and relative parts and the latter's subject was the care of the deciduous teeth. The morning session of the society was taken up entirely with clinical demonstrations.

Those who gave demonstrations at the clinical session were Dr. W. I. Jones, of Columbus, O.; Dr. E. E. Hall, Columbus, O.; Dr. C. H. Neill, Fairmont; Dr. Frank L. Wright, Wheeling; Dr. D. C. Clark, Blacksville; Dr. C. H. Chapman, Webster Springs; Dr. W. E. H. Caldwell, Wheeling; Dr. James E. Dowden, Fairmont, and Dr. J. W. Boydston, Fairmont. They were assisted by other members, guests and various representatives of dental supply and manufacturing concerns.

The legislative committee of the society is considering a bill to be presented to the next legislature amending the present law relating to the practice of dentistry. It seems to be the conviction of many of the members that there is too much politics in the appointment of members of the state board of dentistry and the chief alteration of the law proposed is a recognition of candidates submitted to the governor by the society. The plan is to have a list of two, or possibly three, candidates nominated by the society for each of the five places on the board and to make it obligatory upon the governor to make his appointments from these nominees. The legislative committee will likely present its report Friday morning.

A banquet will be held tonight by the society in the large dining hall of the Waldo hotel. Already sixty-five members and guests have obtained tickets from the secretary for the affair.

The following members have enrolled in addition to those whose names were published in Wednesday's Telegram:

H. H. Harrison, Wheeling; J. A. Wooster, Weston; R. M. Hite, Manassett; C. H. Neill, Fairmont; J. S. Stone, Clarksburg; F. R. Stathers, Clarksburg; E. C. Stanton, Hinton; W. I. Jones, Columbus, O.; J. W. Hutchinson, Parkersburg; M. B. West, Parsons; J. R. Weekley, Philippi; G. M. Galloway, Spencer; D. C. Clark, Blacksville;

Cleaning the Mud Away From the Battleship Maine Is a Slow Job

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

ALL of the water has been pumped from the inside of the cofferdam inclosing the wreck of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor, but the wreck has not yet been entirely exposed to view, as it is buried in mud about thirty-five feet deep. Removing this mud is a slow process, because it is searched closely for the remains of the men whose bodies were not found at the time the battleship was destroyed. Bones that have been recovered belonged to eighteen or twenty bodies, and more are being found daily. Until all the mud is removed, which will not be for several weeks, it will not be possible to answer the question as to the original explosion that destroyed the Maine. One of the pictures above shows the incriminated hull of the battleship, while the other shows that portion of the vessel most severely damaged by the explosion that sent her to the bottom.
